THE OFFICIAL LEAGUE NEWSLETTER • VOLUME 1 • ISSUE 2 • WEEK 1 POST-GAME + WEEK 2 PRE-GAME • SEPTEMBER 2026

FROM THE DESK

Week 1 is officially in the books. C33DeezNutzz and Zygon both cleared 195. Hades9mm dropped 186 and spent $170 of FAAB like the sleeper puss just woke up hungry. StealingGas's Future Therapy Bills laboratory produced an 83-point crater and the worst manager award. Darkspaces spent like Jerry Jones, put Maye on the block, and still walked out 1-0. YesChef23 beat the Issue 1 #1. The receipts are ugly, the trade block is loud, and the desk is here for all of it.

HERO & ZERO OF THE WEEK

HERO

C33DeezNutzz (BBQnBBWs) & Zygon (IR Predictor) — 195+ C33DeezNutzz 195.82 with the full constellation. Zygon 195.7 while living the nickname. Two different paths to the same nuclear result.

ZERO

StealingGas (Future Therapy Bills) — 83.32 Worst manager award, lowest score, 66% of optimal. The RB science experiment is currently failing peer review in spectacular fashion.

BANKROLL WATCH

Darkspaces remains the FAAB champion at $98 after the $101 Ferguson + $301 Singleton spree. Hades9mm just joined the big-spender club, dropping $90 on Malik Benson and $80 on Mike Gesicki (now at $330). StealingGas spent $2 and sits at $498. Everyone else still holds $500. Priority order has shuffled with the claims.

QUOTE OF THE WEEK

"some call it an overreaction. some call it genius."

— Darkspaces, after parking Drake Maye on the block. He still scored and won. The chat will decide which label sticks.

DRAMA OF THE WEEK

Primary: YesChef23 ↔ Painty69. Painty dropped the L (124.86); YesChef beat the Issue 1 #1. Bulletin-board material is now self-writing. The desk is not rehashing the Restaurant Arc.

Secondary: Darkspaces fully leaned into the Jerry Jones bit and is now trolling Painty69 for 1sts after beating him. StealingGas put Kyler, Holani, Vele and Pitts on the block with increasing desperation. Hades9mm listed London and Kittle. Zygon's IR Predictor nickname self-actualized and still produced the co-high score.

BOLD TAKE OF THE WEEK

Most likely still 3-1 among current 1-0 teams: Hades9mm (The sleeper puss). The 186-point opener plus aggressive FAAB spending signals a team that intends to stay loud. Most likely to regret a Week 1 decision: StealingGas for the lineup that scored only 66% of optimal while the laboratory burned.

WEEK 1 POST-GAME ANALYSIS • MATCHUP CARDS

Every matchup gets the full treatment. Concrete player names and point totals required.

Hades9mm (The sleeper puss) 186.00	VS	CMac91 132.52
Final: Hades9mm by 53.48 • Third-highest score of the week
HOW THE PROJECTION AGED Projection called it a toss-up. Reality: Henry 35.3, Amon-Ra 28.7 and the supporting cast turned it into a statement. CMac91's best never had a chance.		WHAT IT MEANS Hades9mm opens 1-0 looking like a real contender and immediately spent $170 more FAAB. CMac91 is 0-1 with a deep roster that can still bounce back.
KEY DECISION Hades9mm rode the correct Henry + Amon-Ra stack and never looked back. CMac91 had no catastrophic sit — just got out-scored by a fully online offense.		MANAGERIAL GRADE Hades9mm: A CMac91: B–

Desk note: The sleeper puss is no longer sleeping — and just spent like it.

Snipe58 121.00	VS	StealingGas (Future Therapy Bills) 83.32
Final: Snipe58 by 37.68 • Lowest score + worst manager award
HOW THE PROJECTION AGED Projection favored Snipe (55%). Jefferson's 31.2 made it look easy. StealingGas got 26.1 from Lawrence and almost nothing else — the RB committee produced a peer-review failure and only 66% of optimal.		WHAT IT MEANS Snipe58 is 1-0 with an elite WR floor intact. StealingGas is 0-1, owns the Zero, and the laboratory needs better data or different subjects.
KEY DECISION StealingGas started the young pieces as planned; the plan simply did not hit. Snipe58 started the studs and let Jefferson cook.		MANAGERIAL GRADE Snipe58: A– StealingGas: D+

Desk note: Therapy is ongoing. Results pending. The worst-manager graphic is permanent.

C33DeezNutzz (BBQnBBWs) 195.82	VS	Sarge71 145.00
Final: C33DeezNutzz by 50.82 • Co-high score of the week
HOW THE PROJECTION AGED Coin-flip projection turned into a massacre. Allen + the full WR/RB constellation hit simultaneously. Sarge71 still dropped a very good 145 (Bijan + Montgomery) and lost by 50.		WHAT IT MEANS C33 owns the early "how is this real" narrative. Sarge71 is 0-1 despite a strong individual night — the kind of loss that still feels like a moral win.
KEY DECISION C33DeezNutzz started the entire constellation and every single one hit. Sarge71 had no obvious bad sit — the other side was simply unstoppable.		MANAGERIAL GRADE C33DeezNutzz: A+ Sarge71: B+

Desk note: 145 points should win most weeks. This was not most weeks.

Darkspaces (First Down Syndrome) 137.52	VS	Painty69 124.86
Final: Darkspaces by 12.66 • Cap-doesn't-exist special
HOW THE PROJECTION AGED Projection was a coin flip. Swift's 32.4 didn't just beat the projection — it personally embarrassed every "Swift is cooked" take in the chat. Gibbs 33.6 was the only real answer from Painty69; CMC managed just 13.8.		WHAT IT MEANS Darkspaces is 1-0 with $98 FAAB left and Maye still on the block. Painty69 is 0-1 in rivalry week; the ceiling is still there when the supporting pieces wake up.
KEY DECISION Darkspaces started Swift over safer options and it paid off. Painty69's "war crime" backfield produced only one criminal.		MANAGERIAL GRADE Darkspaces: B+ (won the game, lost the budget) Painty69: B–

Desk note: $301 for Singleton and still beating the war-crime backfield is peak Jerry Jones.

YesChef23 127.06		vs	fumbduckdumbfuck 113.10
Final: YesChef23 by 13.96 • Upset of the Issue 1 #1
HOW THE PROJECTION AGED Projection heavily favored fumbduck (59%). YesChef23 rode Caleb Williams' 37.3 to the upset. Jeanty and Taylor hit for the favorites, but the rest of the lineup went quiet.		WHAT IT MEANS YesChef23 opens 1-0 and puts the "needs waiver heroics" narrative on probation. fumbduckdumbfuck is 0-1 from the top of the power rankings — the dynasty timeline is long, but the early L stings.
KEY DECISION YesChef23 started the right QB stack and got the result. fumbduckdumbfuck's long-term pieces are still elite; the Week 1 supporting cast was not.		MANAGERIAL GRADE YesChef23: A– fumbduckdumbfuck: C+

Desk note: The #1 seed just got cooked by the team that was supposed to be scavenging waivers.

Zygon (IR Predictor) 195.70		vs	Cassellrole 125.28
Final: Zygon by 70.42 • Co-high score + biggest blowout
HOW THE PROJECTION AGED Dead-heat projection. Zygon won it with Coker 33.8, JSN 26.2 and McBride 24.5 while living the nickname. Cassellrole's dual-QB volume was real but the skill players never kept pace. Biggest blowout of the week (56%).		WHAT IT MEANS IR Predictor is 1-0, co-high score, and the nickname is still profitable. Cassellrole is 0-1 with a functional roster that simply didn't spike.
KEY DECISION Zygon started the correct WR/TE combination and the bit continued to land without costing the win. Cassellrole produced volume without the finishing kick.		MANAGERIAL GRADE Zygon: A Cassellrole: B–

Desk note: Living the injury-prone nickname, scoring 195, and winning by 70 is elite bit commitment.

WEEK 2 PRE-GAME ANALYSIS • MATCHUP CARDS

Equal depth to post-game. Must-get-right calls are specific and slightly spicy. Starters are set; projections are desk estimates.

StealingGas (Future Therapy Bills) 112.0 • 38%	VS	CMac91 138.0 • 62%
MUST-GET-RIGHT — StealingGas Start the highest-upside remaining laboratory piece and hope it finally produces. Do not rotate for the sake of rotating after the 83-point disaster.		MUST-GET-RIGHT — CMac91 Lock the proven volume (Breece / Stevenson tier). Sit any speculative flex that undercut the floor last week. Depth is the weapon.
LANDMINES StealingGas's entire RB room remains a volatility bomb. One more quiet week and the 0-2 hole starts looking structural.		EDGE TAKEAWAY CMac91 is the clear favorite on paper and process. StealingGas needs a bounce-back or the therapy bills get higher.

Desk note: The experiment continues. Peer review is watching. Closely.

Hades9mm (The sleeper puss) 152.0 • 52%	VS	C33DeezNutzz (BBQnBBWs) 155.0 • 48%
MUST-GET-RIGHT — Hades9mm Ride Henry + Amon-Ra again. Start the supporting pieces that already proved the spike is real.		MUST-GET-RIGHT — C33DeezNutzz The Week 1 constellation is the blueprint. Do not get cute. Start the same group that just dropped 195.
LANDMINES Both sides have elite ceilings. The landmine is any "rest" or "game-script" overthink after a huge Week 1.		EDGE TAKEAWAY Slight edge to Hades9mm on floor and recent FAAB aggression. C33DeezNutzz just proved the ceiling is nuclear. Early-season showcase.

Desk note: Two teams that just announced themselves. Someone's zero is about to get ruined again.

Darkspaces (First Down Syndrome) 134.0 • 47%	VS	Snipe58 140.0 • 53%
MUST-GET-RIGHT — Darkspaces Decide if Maye is still the franchise or if the block post was the signal. If starting him, go maximally aggressive with Swift / Collins.		MUST-GET-RIGHT — Snipe58 Jefferson is non-negotiable. Stack the WR corps and let volume work. Avoid any low-floor flex after the solid Week 1 win.
LANDMINES Darkspaces is playing with $98 FAAB and a QB controversy of his own making. Margin for error is thin.		EDGE TAKEAWAY Slight edge Snipe58. Darkspaces can still win if Swift + Collins repeat, but the bankroll hit is already permanent.

Desk note: Cap doesn't exist until the waiver wire reminds you it does.

Sarge71 142.0 • 51%	VS	fumbduckdumbfuck 130.0 • 49%
MUST-GET-RIGHT — Sarge71 Bijan + Montgomery is the engine. Start both. Do not sit proven volume after a 145-point "loss."		MUST-GET-RIGHT — fumbduckdumbfuck Jeanty + Taylor are locked. The supporting cast that went quiet in Week 1 needs to wake up or the 0-2 start becomes real.
LANDMINES Both teams have stud RBs. The difference will be which supporting cast actually shows up.		EDGE TAKEAWAY Slight edge Sarge71 on recent production. fumbduckdumbfuck still owns the higher long-term upside if the young core clicks.

Desk note: 145 points and an L is the cruelest form of moral victory.

Cassellrole 133.0 • 46%	VS	Painty69 142.0 • 54%
MUST-GET-RIGHT — Cassellrole Dual-QB (Lamar + Hurts) is the identity. Start both and hope the skill players produce more than Week 1 volume.		MUST-GET-RIGHT — Painty69 Gibbs is non-negotiable. Start him. CMC and the rest of the war-crime backfield need to hit closer to projection this time.
LANDMINES Painty69's ceiling is still the highest in this pairing if the backfield clicks. Cassellrole's dual-QB approach is safer but lower-upside.		EDGE TAKEAWAY Edge to Painty69 on pure talent. Cassellrole can steal it if the dual-QB volume continues and Painty's supporting pieces stay quiet again.

Desk note: The war-crime backfield has one week of tape. The desk still believes in the crime.

Zygon (IR Predictor) 148.0 • 51%		VS	YesChef23 131.0 • 49%
MUST-GET-RIGHT — Zygon JSN + McBride + the Coker spike were the Week 1 formula. Repeat it. The nickname can stay prophetic as long as the starters stay healthy.			MUST-GET-RIGHT — YesChef23 Caleb Williams just dropped 37. Start him again. The rest of the roster needs the same aggressive mindset that produced the upset.
LANDMINES Health is the landmine for Zygon (true to the name). YesChef23's path is thinner if the QB magic cools.			EDGE TAKEAWAY Slight edge Zygon on cleaner skill-position production, but YesChef23 already proved the upset capability once.

Desk note: Living by the training-room report is a lifestyle. This week will test it.

TRANSACTION WIRE

Darkspaces remains the headline act after the $301 Nicholas Singleton claim (plus the earlier $101 Ferguson). Hades9mm joined the big-spender club with $90 Malik Benson and $80 Mike Gesicki. StealingGas continues to cycle the laboratory and has loaded the trade block (Holani, Vele, Kyler, Pitts). Hades9mm listed Drake London and George Kittle. Darkspaces added Deebo Samuel to the block. No completed trades yet — the board is loud, the action is zero.

HYPOTHETICAL TRADE MACHINE

The board is open, the assets are public, and still zero trades have cleared. The desk is tired of waiting. Here are two realistic deals that actually fix real roster problems.

Proposal 1 — The “Cap Doesn’t Exist” Special

Darkspaces (First Down Syndrome) sends: Drake Maye + a future pick

StealingGas (Future Therapy Bills) sends: a stable RB piece + secondary depth

Darkspaces gets a higher QB floor after putting Maye on the block and burning $402 in FAAB. StealingGas gets a young QB with upside and sheds one more piece of the science experiment that just produced 83 points.

Desk line: It solves both problems on paper. Whether either side actually wants to solve problems is a different question.

Proposal 2 — The “Please Take That Curse” Special

StealingGas (Future Therapy Bills) sends: Kyler Murray

Hades9mm (The sleeper puss) sends: depth / a late pick

StealingGas finally offloads the player he literally asked the league to take. Hades9mm can afford to gamble while the sleeper puss offense is already rolling and just spent $170 more FAAB.

Desk line: One side is begging for the curse to leave. The other side just dropped 186 and can afford the lottery ticket. This one feels closer to actually happening.

WAIVER / FREE-AGENT RADAR

1. Any available pass-catching RB with a path to touches — the early injury wave is real and StealingGas is not the only roster that can use help.
2. Streaming QB / high-upside backup — several managers are one injury away from a real problem (see: Maye trade-block energy).
3. Handcuffs for the stud RBs who just produced big Week 1 numbers — prefer the known quantity over pure speculation.
4. Watch the practice reports — IR Predictor’s entire philosophy is about to be stress-tested league-wide.

CHAT GREATEST HITS (delta since Issue 1)

Darkspaces — “I’m basically the Jerry Jones of our league according to AI and I’m here for it Imfao”

Darkspaces — “will I regret it? probably. ($301 Singleton)”

Darkspaces — “some call it an overreaction. some call it genius. (Maye on the block)”

StealingGas — “@Snipe58 you clapped me like a cheap whore.”

Snipe58 — “I dont even know how”

StealingGas — “Please take that curse (Kyler on the block)”

Zygon — “IR Predictor: Volatile asset portfolio that will live or die by weekly training-room reports.”

Darkspaces — “@Painty69 imagine being win now and losing to my sorry ass. if you want some good players I’ll take some 1st round picks off you”

StealingGas — “No he’s great if you want someone to clog up your bench. (selling Pitts)”

Hades9mm — “look at the pussy in third”

UPDATED POWER RANKINGS • MOVEMENT VS ISSUE 1 BASELINE

Movement arrows color-coded. Verdicts cite concrete Week 1 performances.

#	TEAM	MOV	THE VERDICT
1	C33DeezNutzz (BBQnBBWs)	▲8	▲8 — 195.82 will do that. The entire offense hit on the same night; the rest of the league is now playing catch-up.
2	Zygon (IR Predictor)	▲8	▲8 — 195.7, biggest blowout, and the nickname is still profitable. Co-high score while living the bit.
3	Hades9mm (The sleeper puss)	▲2	▲2 — 186 and a 53-point win, then spent $170 more FAAB. The nickname is awake and aggressive.
4	Snipe58	▼2	▼2 — Solid 121 and a win, but the Jefferson ceiling still has room to go higher. Clean process, quieter statement.
5	Darkspaces (First Down Syndrome)	▲2	▲2 — Won the game, spent the budget, trolled Painty69 for 1sts. $98 FAAB and Maye on the block is the new reality.
6	YesChef23	▲6	▲6 — Upset the Issue 1 #1. Caleb Williams 37.3 was the difference. “Needs waiver heroics” narrative is on probation.
7	Sarge71	▲1	▲1 — 145 and still lost. Bijan + Montgomery remain elite. Moral victory the standings will ignore.
8	CMac91	▼4	▼4 — 132 and a loss to the sleeper puss. Depth is still real; the early L is not structural.
9	Painty69	▼6	▼6 — Gibbs 33.6, everyone else quieter than expected. The war-crime backfield still owns the highest ceiling when it clicks.
10	Cassellrole	▼4	▼4 — Dual-QB volume without the finishing kick. Functional roster, not a Week 1 statement.
11	fumbduckdumbfuck	▼10	▼10 — Jeanty + Taylor hit, the rest did not. Long-term build is still the cleanest; Week 1 execution was not.

12	StealingGas (Future Therapy Bills)	▼1	▼1 — 83.3, lowest score, worst manager award. The RB laboratory needs better data or different subjects.
----	------------------------------------	----	--

THE BOTTOM LINE

Week 1 delivered exactly what a 12-team dynasty is supposed to deliver: two nuclear scores over 195, one complete collapse, a $301 FAAB swing, a trade-block manifesto, an upset of the consensus top team, and zero completed trades despite a loaded board. C33DeezNutzz, Zygon and Hades9mm announced themselves. StealingGas and fumbduckdumbfuck absorbed the early damage. Darkspaces is playing with house money and almost no house left. The rivalry between YesChef23 and Painty69 now has a result on the board. The Hypothetical Trade Machine is open for business. The desk will be watching every one of these threads into Week 2.
